CABINET DIVIDED ON ISSUE OF SANCTIONS AGAINST ITALY

RELIGIOUS CLASH

2 KILLED AND 30 WOUNDED IN BOSNIA

Orthodoxes And Mohammedans In Conflict

RIVAL PARTIES UNITE AGAINST GENDARMES

-CHINA MAIL- SPECIAL

Belgrade, To-day.
Another serious clash between the public and gendarmes took place at Rogatitza in Bosnia, when the gendarmes used firearms, killing two peasants, wounding five seriously and 19 slightly.

Though the official report does not give a clear account of the cause of the conflict, it was apparently religious, rather than political.

The official account says that an aeroplane which had been dropping propaganda leaflets crashed near the Orthodox church. Several Mohammedans, eager to render first-aid to the victims of the aeroplane accident, crossed the churchyard, where an Orthodox congregation was assembled. The Orthodoxes resented the presence of the Mohammedans, and a scuffle resulted.

Gendarmes interfered to separate the combatants, whereupon both sides joined forces against the gendarmes. Five gendarmes and one officer were wounded.

Then the bullets began to fly with fatal results. The angry masses refused to disperse, but relieved their resentment by breaking the windows of 20 shops.—Trans-Ocean Service.

ESPIONAGE CHARGE IN HUPEH

FOREIGNER FOUND GUILTY

Hankow, To-day.

Joseph Waldon and six Chinese accomplices, including a woman, have been found guilty of espionage by Hupeh High Court. The sentences will be announced next week.—Reuter.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT AT COAL MINE

LIFT PLUNGES TO SHAFT BOTTOM

-CHINA MAIL- SPECIAL

Kattowitz, To-day.
A serious accident occurred at the Breszcze coalmine near Riala, when towards midday a committee sent by the mines administration to make investigations along the route, were going down the shaft in a lift cage. When 50 metres from the bottom of the 400-metre drop the lift rope broke, the cage falling headlong into the depths.—Trans-Ocean Service.

SOUTH OF ENGLAND BASKS IN SUNSHINE

London, To-day.—The warm weather in London and Southern England continues, 82 degrees Fahrenheit being recorded in London yesterday afternoon, as compared with 70 at the same hour of the day yesterday. British Wireless Service.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, above, has persuaded Mr. Wang Ching-wei to withdraw his resignation from the post of Minister of Foreign Affairs.

DISARMAMENT IN MONACO

Army Reduced From 200 To 87!

DWINDLING MONTE CARLO PROFITS RESPONSIBLE

-CHINA MAIL- SPECIAL

Paris, To-day.
The tiny Riviera principality of Monaco, one of the oldest sovereign States in Europe, whose total population is under 25,000, has decided to set the world an example in disarmament.

The motives for this policy, however, are rather mercenary than idealistic, since the business of the gaming establishment at Monte Carlo, from which the Monaco Government has hitherto derived its chief revenues, has shrunk to such a degree that rigorous economy is inescapable. Hence the Government has decided, though with deep regret, to reduce the strength of the army from 200 to 87 men.—Trans-Ocean Service.

KWEICHOW REBELS REFUSED AID BY KWANGSI TROOPS

No Antagonising Of Nanking

ALLEGEDLY SUFFERING GREAT HARDSHIPS

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Canton, To-day.
Remnants of rebel Kweichow troops near the Kwangsi borders have been informed that the Kwangsi military authorities do not favour incorporating them into their rank and file. Though friendly with their former G.O.C., the Kwangsi military authorities do not wish to antagonise Nanking by taking rebel troops under their wing.

The provincial troops turned against the Central military authorities at Kweichow. About ten regiments took part in the coup, but owing to lack of money they are said to be suffering great hardships. Nanking official reports claim that the rebel troops have been subdued, although confirmation is lacking.

Those rebels near the Kwangsi border want to join the Fourth Group Army. They are scattering and escaping into Kwangsi. Some of the rebels will lie low for a while and then hope to join the Kwangsi army under the deception that they are war veterans from the North.

General Wang Chia-ih, the former Commander-in-Chief of these troops, is reported to be dead. He was relieved of his duties as chairman of the Kwangsi Provincial Government and as head of the Kwangsi army by the order of the National Government.

URGE FOR RESTRICTION OF THE CONFLICT TO AFRICA AS MAIN OBJECTIVE OF BRITISH POLICY

FRANCE EMPHATICALLY IN SUPPORT

GRAVE CONSEQUENCES HINGE ON TO-DAY'S MEETING

DOMINION DELEGATES CONSULTED

London, To-day.

An emergency meeting of Ministers, presided over by Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, was held at 5 p.m. yesterday. Sir Samuel Hoare, Mr. Anthony Eden, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, Mr. Neville Chamberlain and Sir John Simon were present.

To-day's Cabinet meeting has been summoned for the unusual hour of 10 o'clock, indicating a long discussion. It is believed that the full details of policy will not be elaborated to-day, but a decision on general principles is expected.

The Cabinet is believed to be divided on the issue of sanctions against Italy. Those favouring sanctions believe that they can impose them without involving very grave consequences, while the others believe that Britain's effort should be confined to restricting the conflict to Africa.

It is understood that an emergency meeting of the Ministers comprising the Foreign Affairs Committee, after hearing Mr. Eden's report of the Paris conversations and Sir Samuel Hoare's views thereon, will decide what policy should be recommended to the Cabinet to-day.

Sir Samuel Hoare and Mr. Eden also conferred yesterday with Mr. Winston Churchill and the leader of the Labour Party in the House of Commons, Mr. George Lansbury.

ASSEMBLY OF CABINET

A later message states that practically the whole Cabinet is assembled in London for to-day's meeting. Mr. Baldwin arrived from the Continent yesterday afternoon, accompanied by Mr. Neville Chamberlain, whom he met en route. The Premier immediately proceeded to Downing Street.

Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell landed at Portland from his yacht and is now on his way to London. Viscount Cecil also visited the Foreign Office.

Remarkable Activity In Downing Street

PRESENCE OF HUGE CROWDS RECALLS 1931 CRISIS

The emergency meeting of Ministers terminated at 6.55 p.m. Not since the domestic crisis of 1931 has Downing Street in August presented a scene of such activity as yesterday. Large crowds watched the arrivals and departures of Ministers and other leading statesmen, and numerous photographers and representatives of British and foreign newspapers were also present.

It was understood that the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Cabinet would discuss the agenda of to-day's Cabinet meeting, which contains three heads:

- (1) Mr. Eden's report on the Paris conference.
- (2) The British Government's attitude at Geneva.
- (3) The question of the export of arms.

An earlier talk with the Empire representatives is described as "mainly informative," which suggests that the Dominions representatives were asked to communicate with their Governments and ascertain their views on certain points. The suggestion made that Sir Samuel Hoare, when he saw the United States Charge d'Affaires, secretary this morning.

Following the report of Mr. Anthony Eden, British Minister for League of Nations Affairs, above, on the tripartite Paris conference, the British Cabinet is holding a momentous meeting to-day to decide the question of sanctions against Italy.

NEUTRALITY RESOLUTION IN AMERICA

PASSED IN SENATE WITHOUT VOTE

NATIONAL MUNITIONS CONTROL BOARD

Washington, To-day.

The Senate passed the neutrality resolution without a vote being taken, and it will now be forwarded to the House of Representatives.

The resolution furthermore establishes a National Munitions Control Board, with which all importers, exporters and manufacturers of arms must be registered.—Reuter.

DEBATE IN SENATE

A message received yesterday stated that the possibility of war in Europe precipitated an animated debate in the Senate in which 20 members joined, and during which newspaper war-scare headlines were read out.

A powerful group of Senators was pressing for the passage, before the adjournment of Congress, of a bill embodying neutrality legislation, introduced by Senator Pittman, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

This measure would block shipments of arms and munitions to belligerents, forbid American citizens travelling in belligerent ships and deny American ports to belligerent warships.

The speakers frequently referred to the drawing of the United States into the World War.

TYPHOON WARNING

Two Disturbances Reported

Two typhoons are reported by the Manila Observatory, according to a telegram received through the American Consulate-General at 9.30 a.m. to-day. One is situated in about Longitude 126 East, Latitude 18 North, moving north-west towards Santo Domingo and Formosa directly in its present path. The other is situated in about Longitude 146 East and Latitude 16 North, moving west-north-west. The position is well out to sea, and the almost decline to resume the talks.

ITALY CERTAIN TO ATTEND THE COUNCIL MEETING

African And European Problems

RESPONSE TO FRANCE'S FRIENDLY PRESSURE

Black Shirts Fall Victims To Tropical Diseases

-CHINA MAIL- SPECIAL

Paris, To-day.

The Rome correspondent of the "Paris Soir" declares that he has received from the Press Ministry a firm assurance that the Italian Government will attend the session of the League of Nations Council on September 4.

While Italy, it was added, wanted on the one hand to retain her freedom of action for the defence of her colonies and the gratification of her desire for expansion in Africa, she wished on the other hand to remain in touch with the Western Powers in order to set forth the collaboration in the work of the maintenance of European safety.

In outlining this attitude it was explained that Italy is responding to friendly pressure from the French Government and is acknowledging the solidarity which the French Premier proclaimed towards the Italian people.

1,000 TAKEN SICK EVERY WEEK

Floating Poison Gas Magazine

A message from Alexandria states that an average of over 1,000 men a week among the Italian troops at Eritrea are going on the sick list with tropical diseases, according to an unconfirmed report from Port Sudan. This figure, it is stated, only comprises the serious cases transported back to Italy; the lighter cases are brought to Port Sudan for treatment on hospital ships anchored there, and are afterwards returned to Eritrea.

About 10 ships daily of all nationalities arrive at Massawa, continues the message, bearing supplies of war material. One boat which recently called at Port Sudan is said to have been converted into a floating poison gas magazine.

NAVAL TALKS IN OCTOBER

Britain Sounds Japan On Resumption

Tokyo, To-day.

It is learned that Britain recently sounded Japan, on the question of the resumption of the multilateral naval talks in London in October.

The Cabinet is reported to have made a decision to instruct the Japanese Embassy to remind Britain of the Japanese demand for parity with a common upper limit of tonnage, and to stress that failing acceptance, Japan will well out to sea, and the almost decline to resume the talks.

BRITAIN MUST TAKE THE LEAD

League's Fight Against Mussolini

QUESTION OF SANCTIONS

London, To-day.

The Times says that the Government and the nation must face the questions of what sanctions they will be prepared to carry out if the League Council on September 4 or at a later date decides that an act of aggression has been committed by Italy.

After referring to the British lead in the Saar plebiscite measures, the leading article continues: "In the present case graver issues are at stake and far greater risks are to be faced. There are also some valid arguments for a policy of abstention, but the conscience of this country has been touched."

"The League has now to show that it is not afraid of Signor Mussolini. It will do so if Britain takes the lead and makes definite proposals at the Geneva meeting."

"The nature of any sanctions to be taken is not a matter for immediate decision, but the sooner it is considered by all countries, the more likely the sanctions are to be effective, if the grave necessity of their application arises."—Reuter.

Italian Credits Withdrawn

REVELATIONS IN 'NEWS CHRONICLE'

The City Editor of the News Chronicle understands that one of the "Big Five" Banks has recalled the whole of its Italian credits. He adds that as the credits, which are now utilised are mature, they will not be renewed and must be repaid by the Italian Banks or commercial firm to which they were granted. It is probable that this lead will be followed by all the other big British Banks. The decision is not due to dictation from the Bank of England or the Treasury, but is a normal precautionary measure which is taken in view of the serious deterioration which has occurred in the Italian exchange position.—Reuter.

BEAUTY SECRETS
FROM THE STARS
OF HOLLYWOODElizabeth Allan's
Method

Elizabeth Allan's eyes are her loveliest feature, and she knows well how the perfect grooming of brows and lashes, as well as the make-up of the entire face, enhances their beauty. Here are her hints for other women.

She applies eye make-up first. After using eyebrow pencil, she grooms her brows very thoroughly with a special brush.

Next she puts on her rouge with a lamb's wool puff, and then blends in the colour with her finger-tips. She uses a large puff, pats the powder on to her skin rather than dusting it on, and is careful not to powder anywhere near her eyes.

After powdering she again brushes her lashes and brows to make sure that no trace of powder adheres to them. Last of all, she applies lipstick.

POSIES CONSIDERED
FASHIONABLEUsed Both On Dresses
And Hats

It is fashionable to be dressed up with posies. You wear a corsage on your new dress, add a dash of bright colour to your navy, gray or tan suit with a posy in your buttonhole, and wear flowers in your hair or on your shoulder for evening.

Hats, too, have fallen in line and are decorated with flowers—a comeback that has been long in returning. Here is a most becoming hat of red straw—and when did we ever see so many red hats in a season? It has a medium width brim which is turned up at the side back to show a cluster of carnations.

The Secret Of Pressing
During OperationsWELL MADE DRESSES ARE MOSTLY PLAIN

One of the snags in home dressmaking is the difficulty of finishing-off. This can, however, be dealt with, if the dressmaker will take enough trouble, learn to do button-holes neatly, avoid too many press-studs, and, above all, press as she goes along. Lending interest to a dress is less easy and success depends largely upon the way in which the blank spots are filled in. Dresses may easily become uninteresting immediately above the belt. Skirts may be desperately uninteresting unless a superb cut is available. Skirt and bodice may together offer an acme of dullness.

Importance Of Neck

The neck is, perhaps, the most important part of a dress and the right collar or neck-lines are essential. Once these are found, it remains to give some point to the space below. Dresses with cape shoulders do this, the cape giving an interesting movement just above the belt. It can be done by so simple a means as buttons down the front.

Bodice and skirt can be given coherence by means of buttons up one side—which really button—perhaps two on the bodice and three on the skirt, or the other way round. Interest is added to a skirt sometimes by breaking it up, giving it a hip-yoke, or setting in pleats at the knees.

A seam in the bodice just above the belt has the effect of giving the bodice an inverted yoke. Sometimes an inverted tuck in bodice and skirt in front about 10 inches in length gives interest to that front. If well-made dresses are looked at carefully it will be seen that they mostly look very plain indeed but that they are thus unobtrusively broken up into zones of interest. Tails of ribbons, buttons, the flap of a basque, all these little touches are not much in themselves, but they contribute to the interest which prevents the home-made dress from looking amateurish.

Metallic fabrics, the latest word in glittering formal wear, are used in this dull gold cloth evening ensemble. Claire Dodd, Warner Bros. actress, wears the luxurious affair, which has a trailing skirt topped with a silver fox trimmed coat that has a dropped V hemline and a soft tie belt.

AVOID PUCKERING
IN DARNINGWool Should Be Washed
Before Use

Darning on woollen garments frequently leaves a hard puckered area, particularly after the articles have been washed. This is because new unwashed wool is used for darning garments which have been washed many times.

To avoid this puckering the darning wool should always be washed before use in fairly hot water. The wool need only be immersed for a few minutes and then left out-of-doors to dry. This process will shrink the wool so that puckering is avoided.

Tending Patent Leather Shoes

Vaseline The Best
DressingUSEFUL ON BRUSHES AFTER
THEY ARE WASHED

Vaseline is the best dressing for patent leather shoes. It should be applied to them before they are worn, left on for several days, and then polished off with a soft cloth. Whenever the shoes are to be put away for a few days they should be treated with vaseline to keep the leather supple and glossy.

When hairbrushes with ebony or polished wood backs are washed the backs should first be lightly coated with vaseline. This protects the polished surface from being dulled or spotted with soapy water.

Mildew on boots or shoes, or on bags, straps, and any other leather articles, may be removed if it is well rubbed with vaseline. The surface should afterwards be treated with shoe-cream or furniture polish.

Vaseline is useful for oiling the castors on furniture. For this purpose it may be slightly warmed, if necessary, and then applied with a feather.

Rusty keys should be dipped in vaseline before they are tried in a lock, and when trunks and suitcases are stored away the locks should be smeared with vaseline.

SKIRT PROBLEM

The Paris dressmakers are at odds on the subject of the wider skirt. Lanvin, Lelong and Paquin like them shorter and wider. Schiaparelli and Mainbocher keep them narrow.

DEPRESSED BY ACUTE
ACIDITY

There can surely be no doubt about the effectiveness of a remedy for acidity that can give such permanent relief as in this woman's case.

"I suffered for many years from acidity in various forms," she writes. "At last it became so acute that every morning I woke with a gnawing pain and a great depression of spirits. I tried Kruschen Salts, and the effect was magical. The pain subsided and the depression lifted like a cloud. I have taken the daily dose of Kruschen ever since. That was about five years ago, and the Kruschen does not lose its effect. It did more than produce temporary benefit—it completely relieved in a year or two, and I have not had that gnawing pain since." (Miss) E. M. H.

Kruschen is so effective, with acidity because it neutralises acid, takes all the torment out of it, and gently expels it from the system. And by stimulating your organs of elimination to perfect regular action, Kruschen will prevent this harmful acid from ever accumulating again. After that you'll experience no more misery after meals.

THE NEW LINES IN
LINENTaffeta Combination
Makes Smart Suits

All the new lines are distinctive, and cover a wide range, in their mottled, rugged, smooth, patterned or knitted effects. In fact one could find enough different and suitable linens to make every garment in one's wardrobe.

Linen combined with taffeta is very smart for suits and tailored frocks when the taffeta forms wide stitched lapels, or ties in a large flat bow at the neck. A wide taffeta belt and covered buttons are new on a plain linen dress, or if you are planning a sun-bathing dress let it be tailored with a checked taffeta belt and buttons like the one sketched. A wide stitched collar holds the bodice in position, whilst the skirt part wraps over at the back and buttons down the left side.

The dress is easily slipped on and buttoned in position.

Red, white and blue machine stitching trims the collar, whilst the belt and buttons are of checked taffeta in the same colourings.

BRIDGE NOTES

Keep Your Eye On The Score

By Ely Culbertson

Every Bridge player, whether a keen student of the game or a casual and infrequent participant, and whether a great expert or a struggling beginner, must train himself to keep his eye on the score. I cannot be too emphatic in speaking of the great importance in all respects of each player's knowing which side has scored a game, whether or not either side has a part-score, and other bits of information that a glance at the score sheet will reveal.

At times it will be necessary to choose between bidding for a game and doubling the opponents. If the opponents are vulnerable, very often the proper choice is to double and play for a penalty, whereas it would be entirely incorrect to double non-vulnerable opponents and accept a penalty of 250 points or so.

It is often of even greater value to know that your side has a part-score, so that you will not overbid your hand in an attempt to score below the line tricks that you do not need. I should recommend to all those who are interested in being alert to their opportunities at all times that they keep their own scores whenever they play Bridge.

To-day I am showing a hand in which two very fine players lost a game by stretching for a Slam, because one of them glanced at another player's score sheet and mistook a part-score in the opponent's column for his own. Thinking that his side had a part-score, he interpreted his partner's aggressive bidding as a strong try for a Slam, with the result that he bid too much and was set.

Pass 5 D (3) Pass 6 D (4)
Pass Pass Pass

1—South realized that it was East-West who had the part-score. In such circumstances it is proper to overbid one's hand a little in order to prevent the opponents from making a game too cheaply. South's hand is of course, strong enough for an overcall, regardless of the condition of the score.

2—North had become confused and was of the opinion, as I mentioned before, that the 30-point part-score belonged to him and his partner. For this reason he immediately raised to four diamonds, believing that the contract could easily be made and that the 80 points thus scored would be enough for a game. If North had realized that they would need the full 100 points for game, he probably would have kept the bidding within the three notrump level.

3—South's bid is quite obvious; because of his partner's double raise he is bidding for game. Unfortunately, the bid appears to North in the nature of a Slam try, since it seems that South is overbidding the score.

4—From North's point of view, if South is strong enough to make a Slam try, six-odd should be fairly safe. North has the spade suit controlled, and with his singleton club he is assured of losing no more than one trick in that suit immediately, in case South is weak in clubs and strong in the other suits.

Cinema Notes

"TRANSIENT LADY"—
KING'S THEATRE

"Transient Lady," the famous Octavus Roy Cohen story which ran serially in Liberty magazine, is showing at the King's Theatre to-day. Starting with a great author and a great story, Universal Pictures decided to complete the greatness of this production with a cast that is unequalled. Gene Raymond, Henry Hull, Frances Drake and June Clayworth are seen in the featured roles. And what a performance they give!

The story of this picture is laid in a sleepy, little Alabama town. A wandering trio of promoters, Miss Drake, Edward Ellis and Clark Williams, arrive in town for the purpose of setting up a temporary roller-skating rink. They run foul of a gang of crooked relatives of a crooked politician and a murder results. The crooks try to pin the guilt on one of the promoters and then the thrills begin. Through it all runs one of the most beautiful love stories of the age.

"ONE NEW YORK NIGHT"—
QUEEN'S THEATRE

Franchot Tone has made a very sudden appearance among the ranking cinema stars, and his performance in "One New York Night," the current attraction at the Queen's Theatre, will give you the reason why.

In this film he is shown as a Wyoming rancher who goes to New York to find a wife and is precipitated into a murder mystery, which happens in the hotel room adjoining his own.

Conrad Nagel is in rather strange surroundings as the "heavy" of the plot, but plays his part well nevertheless, and Una Merkel is shown as a telephone operator.

"PURSUED"—ALHAMBRA
THEATRE

British North Borneo in the Dutch East Indies, a land of approximately 60,000,000 Malays and 100,000 whites, is the exotic background of "Pursued," a new Fox film drama, and is showing at Alhambra Theatre to-day.

A land of jungles and malaria, rubber plantations and wild game, thousands of white men and only a smattering of white women. Borneo daily sees enacted many dramas rivaling those of the screen.

To ensure accuracy of detail in the production, the studio engaged John Aronsma, first white man born in Borneo, as technical adviser.

In the principal feminine role of "Pursued" is Rosemary Ames, Chicago socialite. She plays a girl who, through financial misfortune, is forced to earn her way in a dance hall. It is her third major part since her screen debut in "I Believed In You."

Prominent also in the cast are Victor Jory, Pert Kelton, and Russell Hardie.

"BIRD OF PARADISE"—STAR

The story of "Bird Of Paradise" which is showing at the Star Theatre to-day, for one day only, might almost be a defiance to Kipling's famous saying, for it tells of the love which springs up between Joel McCrea, as a young American, and Delores del Rio, an exotic beauty of one of the Pacific islands.

There are some beautiful scenes, and in order that the true effect might be captured, it is believed that the company went on location to the Hawaiian Islands for a while.

The contract was, of course, defeated, for West opened his singleton heart in response to his partner's opening bid and then ruffed the heart return for the setting trick. The result would have been the same had West opened a spade, for South could not have established a heart trick in Dummy without letting East in to cash a trick on the second spade round.

North and South eventually lost the rubber, whereas it had been their if they had stopped at five diamonds and taken their game. It cost North, and, alas, his partner, over 1,000 points not to know the score.

"SANATOGEN will soon put him right again"

Physicians know by experience, how quickly and surely Sanatogen will build up strength in debilitated patients.

Whatever the cause of the weakness, be it illness, overwork or worry, Sanatogen cannot fail to do good. The phosphorus it contains is pure strength to the weakened nerve-cells. The albumin is nature's own building material of bodily power. It is the intricate combination of these two elements that has won Sanatogen the written recommendations of over 25,000 physicians.

And the splendid part of it is that Sanatogen is not only a true tonic-food, but also very easily digestible, so that the weakest patient, and the weakest stomach, can digest it.

Sanatogen must do you good. It does not interfere with any medical treatment, and every glassful brings you nearer to perfect health again. Shorten that tedious period of convalescence. Be strong and healthy again. You can if you start your course of Sanatogen today.

SANATOGEN
The True Tonic-Food

Obtainable at all Chemists and Stores.

SOUTH CHINA INFLICT FIRST WATER-POLO DEFEAT ON Y.M.C.A.

SIR JULIEN CAHN NOT FOR SINGAPORE

But Hopes To Bring Team Out In 1937

A letter has been received by the Singapore Cricket Club from Sir Julien Cahn regretting his inability to bring a cricket side to Malaya in 1936. Sir Julien, however, adds that he hopes to bring a side out in 1937.

Sir Julien was in Singapore last February during his world tour on the Empress of Britain. He was very much impressed with the country then and expressed a wish to return.

SCOTLAND WIN AT SOCCER

70,000 SEE ENGLAND BEATEN

THRILLS AT HAMPDEN PK.

Glasgow, To-day.

A crowd of over 70,000 spectators packed the stands at Hampden Park yesterday to witness the Jubilee international soccer match between England and Scotland, which the latter won by 4 goals to 2 after leading at the interval by three clear goals.

The gate receipts, which will be donated to the Silver Jubilee Trust Fund, were conspicuous for the fact that everybody paid, including the Press.

Scotland attacked almost throughout, while England, whose forwards lacked cohesion, only showed international class during the last 10 minutes of the clash. Scotland, however, combined well in both defence and attack.

Delaney opened the scoring for Scotland, and Armstrong and Walker added further goals before the interval.

Gurney and Westwood replied for England in the latter stages of the match, and Walker added Scotland's fourth from the penalty spot.—Reuter.

FRED PERRY AGAIN OFF FOR TOUR

TO DEFEND HIS U.S. SINGLES TITLE

Fred Perry, world's No. 1 lawn tennis player has already left England to begin another world tennis tour.

He will play exhibition matches in Canada, defend his American title in the States, take up his business appointment in Australia in October, leave there in February, join the British team in South Africa, be home in March, and play in the hard court championships in April.

THRILLING DISPLAY AT NORTH POINT

FOWLER & PO KING-FOOK IN LIMELIGHT

"Y'S" WEAKNESS IN MARKING

(By "Crawl")

A VERY thrilling but ragged water-polo game was witnessed by a very large crowd at North Point yesterday evening, when the European Y.M.C.A. sustained their first defeat this season, losing to the South China Athletic Association by the odd goal in five.

The Chinese did not deserve to win as their opponents were all over them for the major portion of the game, but two fatal breakaways owing to bad marking cost the Europeans the game.

There were patches of individual brilliance on both sides. G. H. Fowler supplying the outstanding performance of the evening under a great handicap. There were times innumerable when he hit everything there was to hit on the Chinese goal with two men hanging on to him like leeches, and his second goal was the best of the game.

Lionel Lo, the South China right-winger, was also at the top of his form, and his clever manoeuvring resulted in two clever goals. Pan Ngun-leong, the home centre-half, also played a very strenuous game, but infringed on more than one occasion with bad tackling which should have been pulled up.

The visitors started with a disadvantage, although this served as no excuse for their defeat. The marking of the pitch was bad in the extreme and the two-yard line was, at the very least, five yards from the touch-in-goal boards, while the goal-line-mark was at least a yard and a half in advance of the front supports of the goals.

LOU GEHRIG SHATTERS BABE RUTH'S RECORD

Hits Homer With All Bases Full

SEVENTEENTH TIME IN HIS BASEBALL CAREER

New York, To-day.

Lou Gehrig yesterday supplied the outstanding feature of this season's baseball season when he shattered Babe Ruth's life-time record when for the 17th time of his career he hit a homer—his 18th of the season—with all bases full. This was in the first game of the double-header against St. Louis Browns in the American League, when the Yankees won by a 14 to 2 margin. He also scored a homer in the second clash, but the Browns won by 14 to 3.

After two successive defeats at the hands of the Yankees, the Tigers yesterday gained valuable ground when they secured a full quota of points by beating the Red Sox in their double-header, just managing to nose out a victory in the second clash.

Results, as cabled by Reuter, were—

NOT A YORKSHIRE RECORD GIBB'S CENTURY IN DEBUT

TYSON'S 1921 EFFORT
RECALLED

The feat of P. A. Gibb, the young Cambridge batsman, in scoring 157 not out in his first innings for Yorkshire was not, as has been widely stated, a record for the county, nor did it make cricket history.

In 1921, in his first innings in first-class cricket, C. Tyson scored 100 not out for Yorkshire v Hampshire at Southampton.

Tyson went in first wicket down after Holmes and Sutcliffe had scored twenty or so runs, and his century saved Yorkshire, whose total was only 220.

In the second innings Tyson very nearly scored a second hundred, for when the match was left drawn he was 80 not out.

This is the nearest any cricketer has got to the unprecedented feat of scoring two separate centuries on a first appearance.

In the game between Private Terry (R.A.M.C.) and Private E. A. Remedios (R.K.V.D.C.) the R.A.M.C. player led at one time

THE ST. LEGER OUTLOOK GOODWOOD MEET A FROST

FAIR TRIAL'S ABSENCE
DOES NOT HELP

Owing to the absence of Fair Trial the Goodwood meeting threw no new light on the St. Leger outlook, and we have to wait for the Hurst Park fixture this month before we can expect any change in the classic situation.

After Ascot the Aga Khan made up his mind that Bahram should not run again until Doncaster, but apparently it is now considered advisable that he should have an outing for the purpose of sharpening him up for the last of his classic tests.

The Richmond Stakes is the race selected for him, and a day later we shall probably see Field Trial in the Hyperion Stakes.

No doubt these arrangements are contingent on the state of the course. If August is as short in its rainfall as July we may be sure that no preliminary risks will be taken with the first and second favourite for the St. Leger.

by 80 points.

Big Trouncing

In the game between the Headquarters Wing, Lincoln, and "D" Company, Lincoln, the former won by 334 points, while in the remaining game the Hong Kong Police received a walk-over from "B" Company, Fusiliers.

The best game of the Second Round will probably be seen to-night when the Hong Kong Police meet Headquarters Wing, Lincoln, the holders.

AN EXPECTED SETBACK TO ENGLISH CRICKET FAST BOWLERS NOT AT THEIR BEST

SEQUEL TO SENSATIONAL "WAR" WITH AUSTRALIA

COMPLETE TEST STATISTICS

COMPLETELY demoralised by the after effects of Douglas Jardine's triumphant tour of Australia in the 1932-33 season and the subsequent censure of fast leg theory, it came as no surprise to see English cricket receive another setback during the present South African tour.

Lack of enterprise on the part of Wyatt backed up by unaccountable failures by the English batsmen allowed glorious opportunities to slip away both at Leeds and Old Trafford, and the cry for brighter cricket was again echoed throughout the country.

Despite the fact that Wyatt had a battery of three of the best fast bowlers in England at his service in the Oval match, which finished so tamely last Wednesday, the tourists averaged 47 runs per wicket after being sent in to bat. The bowlers in question, afraid of being labelled dangerous in the same sense as Larwood and Voce were after the 1932-33 Australian season, were almost entirely ineffective, despite the fact that all three of them have many outstanding feats to their credit in the county championship series. The whole trouble is that English cricket, talking of representative sides, has died a tragic death.

The five Tests recently completed have brought four men into the limelight—Robins, Mitchell (Yorkshire), Bakewell, and Barber—and it is almost safe to say that all four will visit Australia this winter. Hardstaff, E. R. T. Holmes and Mitchell-Innes failed in their initial appearances and were passed over. They, too, are likely to tour Australia, with less experience, than they should have had. England's captaincy problems are likely to be solved by the selection of Robins or Holmes as skipper, although Wyatt is bound to accompany the team.

Test Statistics

Only one run out was recorded in the five Tests—Siedle was the victim.

In the series Hammond led the fieldsmen with seven catches, followed by Bruce Mitchell (6), Viljoen (3), Verity (3), Wade (2), Nourse (2), Bell (2), Langton (2), Vincent (2), Robins (2), Mitchell (York) (2), Wyatt (2), and Dalton. Rowan Nichols, Langridge, Holmes, Smith, Barber, Bowes, Clay, and Bakewell one each.

Cameron, the South African wicket-keeper, stumped three and caught seven batsmen, besides allowing only 83 extras in an aggregate of 2365 runs. Ames stumped three, caught five, and allowed 94 extras in 1365 runs; Farrimond caught two and had 13 extras in 506 runs; and Duckworth caught one and had 17 extras in 487 runs.

Bowlers with lbw victims in the Tests—Langton (5), Nichols (4), Vincent (2), Crisp (2), Robins (2), and Mitchell (S.A.) (1), Bell, Balaskas, Hammond, Verity, Bowes, and Tate one each.

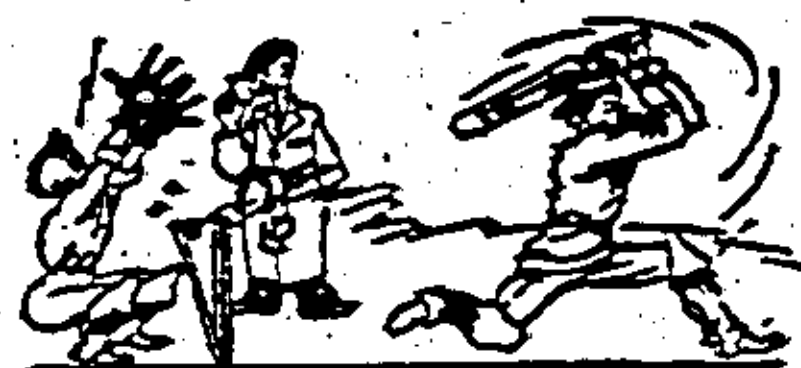

In the five Tests England scored 2365 runs for the loss of 66 wickets—an average of 35.83 per wicket, while the South Africans totalled 2358 runs for 71 wickets—an average of 33.21.

Summarised Test Results

The following are the summarised results of the five Tests:
First Test at Trent Bridge—Drawn
England: 384 for 7 dec. (Wyatt 149)
S. Africa: 220 (Siedle 59, Nichols 6 for 35) and for 1
Second Test at Lord's—S. Africa 400 (157 runs)
S. Africa: 228 (Cameron 90) and 278 for 7 dec. (Mitchell 164)

England: 198 (Wyatt 53, Balaskas 5 for 49) and 151 (Balaskas 4 for 54, Langton 4 for 31)

Third Test at Leeds—Drawn
England: 216 (Hammond 63, Langton 4 for 59, Vincent 4 for 45) and 294 for 7 dec. (Hammond 87 not out, Vincent 4 for 104)

S. Africa: 171 (Rowan 62) and 194 for 5 (Mitchell 58)
Fourth Test at Old Trafford—Drawn
England: 357 (Robins 108, Bakewell 63, Crisp 5 for 99) and 231 for 6 dec. (Hammond 63 not out, Vincent 4 for 78)

S. Africa: 318 (Viljoen 124, Bowes 5 for 100) and 169 for 2 (Nourse 53 not out)

Fifth Test at the Oval—Drawn
S. Africa: 476 (Mitchell 128, Dalton 117, Read 4 for 136) and 287 for 6 (Dalton 57 not out)
England: 534 for 6 dec. (Leyland 161, Ames 148 not out)

Test Record To Date

After having drawn at Trent Bridge, won by 157 runs at Lord's, and drawn at Leeds, Old Trafford and the Oval, South Africa have the following Test record:

	Won	S.A. Eng.	D.	Tl.
In S. A.	11	19	8	33
In England	1	9	11	21

Totals 12 28 19 59
Wally Hammond has hit three Test centuries against the South Africans, Bob Wyatt and Leyland two each, and Robins one.

Mitchell is the only South African on the present tour who has reached three figures on three occasions against England—in a Test, Siedle, Dalton and Viljoen have each scored one Test century against England.

Only Bell, Cameron, Mitchell, Siedle, and Vincent were members of H. G. Deane's South African side which toured England in 1929. During that tour they lost two Tests and drew the other three.

CHINA'S SEARCH FOR SPORTS LEADERS

MALAYAN CHINESE BID FOR BERLIN OLYMPIAD

BRILLIANT GIRL SWIMMER

Singapore, Aug. 15.

THE best Chinese footballers, athletes and swimmers of Malaya stand a very good chance of being able to pit their ability with the best of the West as China's representatives at the Olympic Games which will be held in Berlin in August next year.

This is the opinion of Dr. Yung Chi Shan, of the China Amateur Athletic and Sports Federation, who was in Singapore recently, and who is now touring Java and Sumatra with the Chung-Hua Football Team, of Shanghai. He has been asked to pick the best footballers from Malaya or the East Indies to strengthen the representative soccer team of China which is preparing to take part for the first time in the world competitions.

The question of expense prevents China from sending more than twenty footballers who will have to leave Shanghai some time in April next year. By playing football on their way they will benefit a lot before they arrive at their destination in Berlin, in so far as an improvement of their game is concerned.

In Hong Kong, Saigon, British Malaya, India and Central Europe, many matches will be played, and in view of the period which will be at their disposal for improving the standard of their play, the Chinese team should be able to put up a good showing, although they cannot hope to win any of the football honours in Berlin.

COOPER BEATS WORLD'S WALK RECORD

The world's record for the 3,000 metres walk was beaten at Ponders End, London, by A. A. Cooper (Woodford Green), the A.A.A. 2 miles champion, who covered the distance in 12 min. 58.1-sec. Cooper, who was assisted by several championship winners in a special handicap, finished 15.3-sec inside the previous record of 12 min. 53.4-sec. made by G. Rasmussen in Denmark on July 7, 1912.

This resulted in the "Y" forwards being continually caught within the two yard mark, and although no one was ordered out of the water (the Referee has no option in this instance), it considerably hampered play.

Brilliant Custodian

One of the outstanding features of the game was the excellent goal-keeping of Po King-fook, who was to a great extent responsible for blocking or stopping Fowler's magnificent second half efforts from all angles.

H. G. Lange, the Y.M.C.A. pivot, played his best game of the season, the true length of the pitch giving him ample space within which to manoeuvre. His spilling was excellent and he had very hard lines in not scoring on two occasions when he was deliberately hampered, the free-throws proving unavailing.

Y.M.C.A. Weakness

The weakness in the Y.M.C.A. team was Wood, who very sportingly turned out, although he had not touched a polo ball for well over a year. He was consequently at a disadvantage in his marking and was frequently caught napping by his opposite number. Then again, playing in South China's full size pitch, robbed him of any reserve energy, and in the second half he was often left behind. Ferrett and Wagstaff were very sound in defence and it was no fault of theirs that three goals were scored.

"Y's" Early Lead

The game opened at a very fast pace, and a long pass from Lange to the right-winger saw Goldman score with a back-header. The Chinese, however, evened up matters when Lionel Lo broke away from Ferrett to score easily. The "Y's" second goal was a brilliant piece of work. They were awarded a corner, and Fowler placed the ball to the left of Goldman, who, although marked by three men, lobbed the ball back to Fowler who scored with a full-volley (full arm swing).

Just before the interval Wood was caught napping and Henry Leong streaked away to score with a swivel shot which had S. Fowler beaten all the way.

Winning Goal

The second-half was thrilling in the extreme, the Chinese again scoring from a break-away, through Lionel Lo.

Thereafter the "Y" had all the play, but Po King-fook's brilliance between the Chinese sticks, and Fowler's very hard kick gave the Chinese victory.

There will probably be a return game in the "Y" bath in about a fortnight's time. The teams were: South China—Po King-fook; Harold Wing-lee and Stanley Lee; Pan Ngum-lem; Lionel Lo; Henry Leong and Norman Lee. Y.M.C.A.—S. Fowler; J. Ferrett and A. W. Wagstaff; H. G. Lange; E. Goldman; G. H. Fowler and E. K. Wood.

GIANT PLANES WITHDRAWN FROM ROYAL DUTCH AIR SERVICES

FLYING RECORDS SET IN U.S.A.

TRANSPORT PLANE'S FINE SHOWING

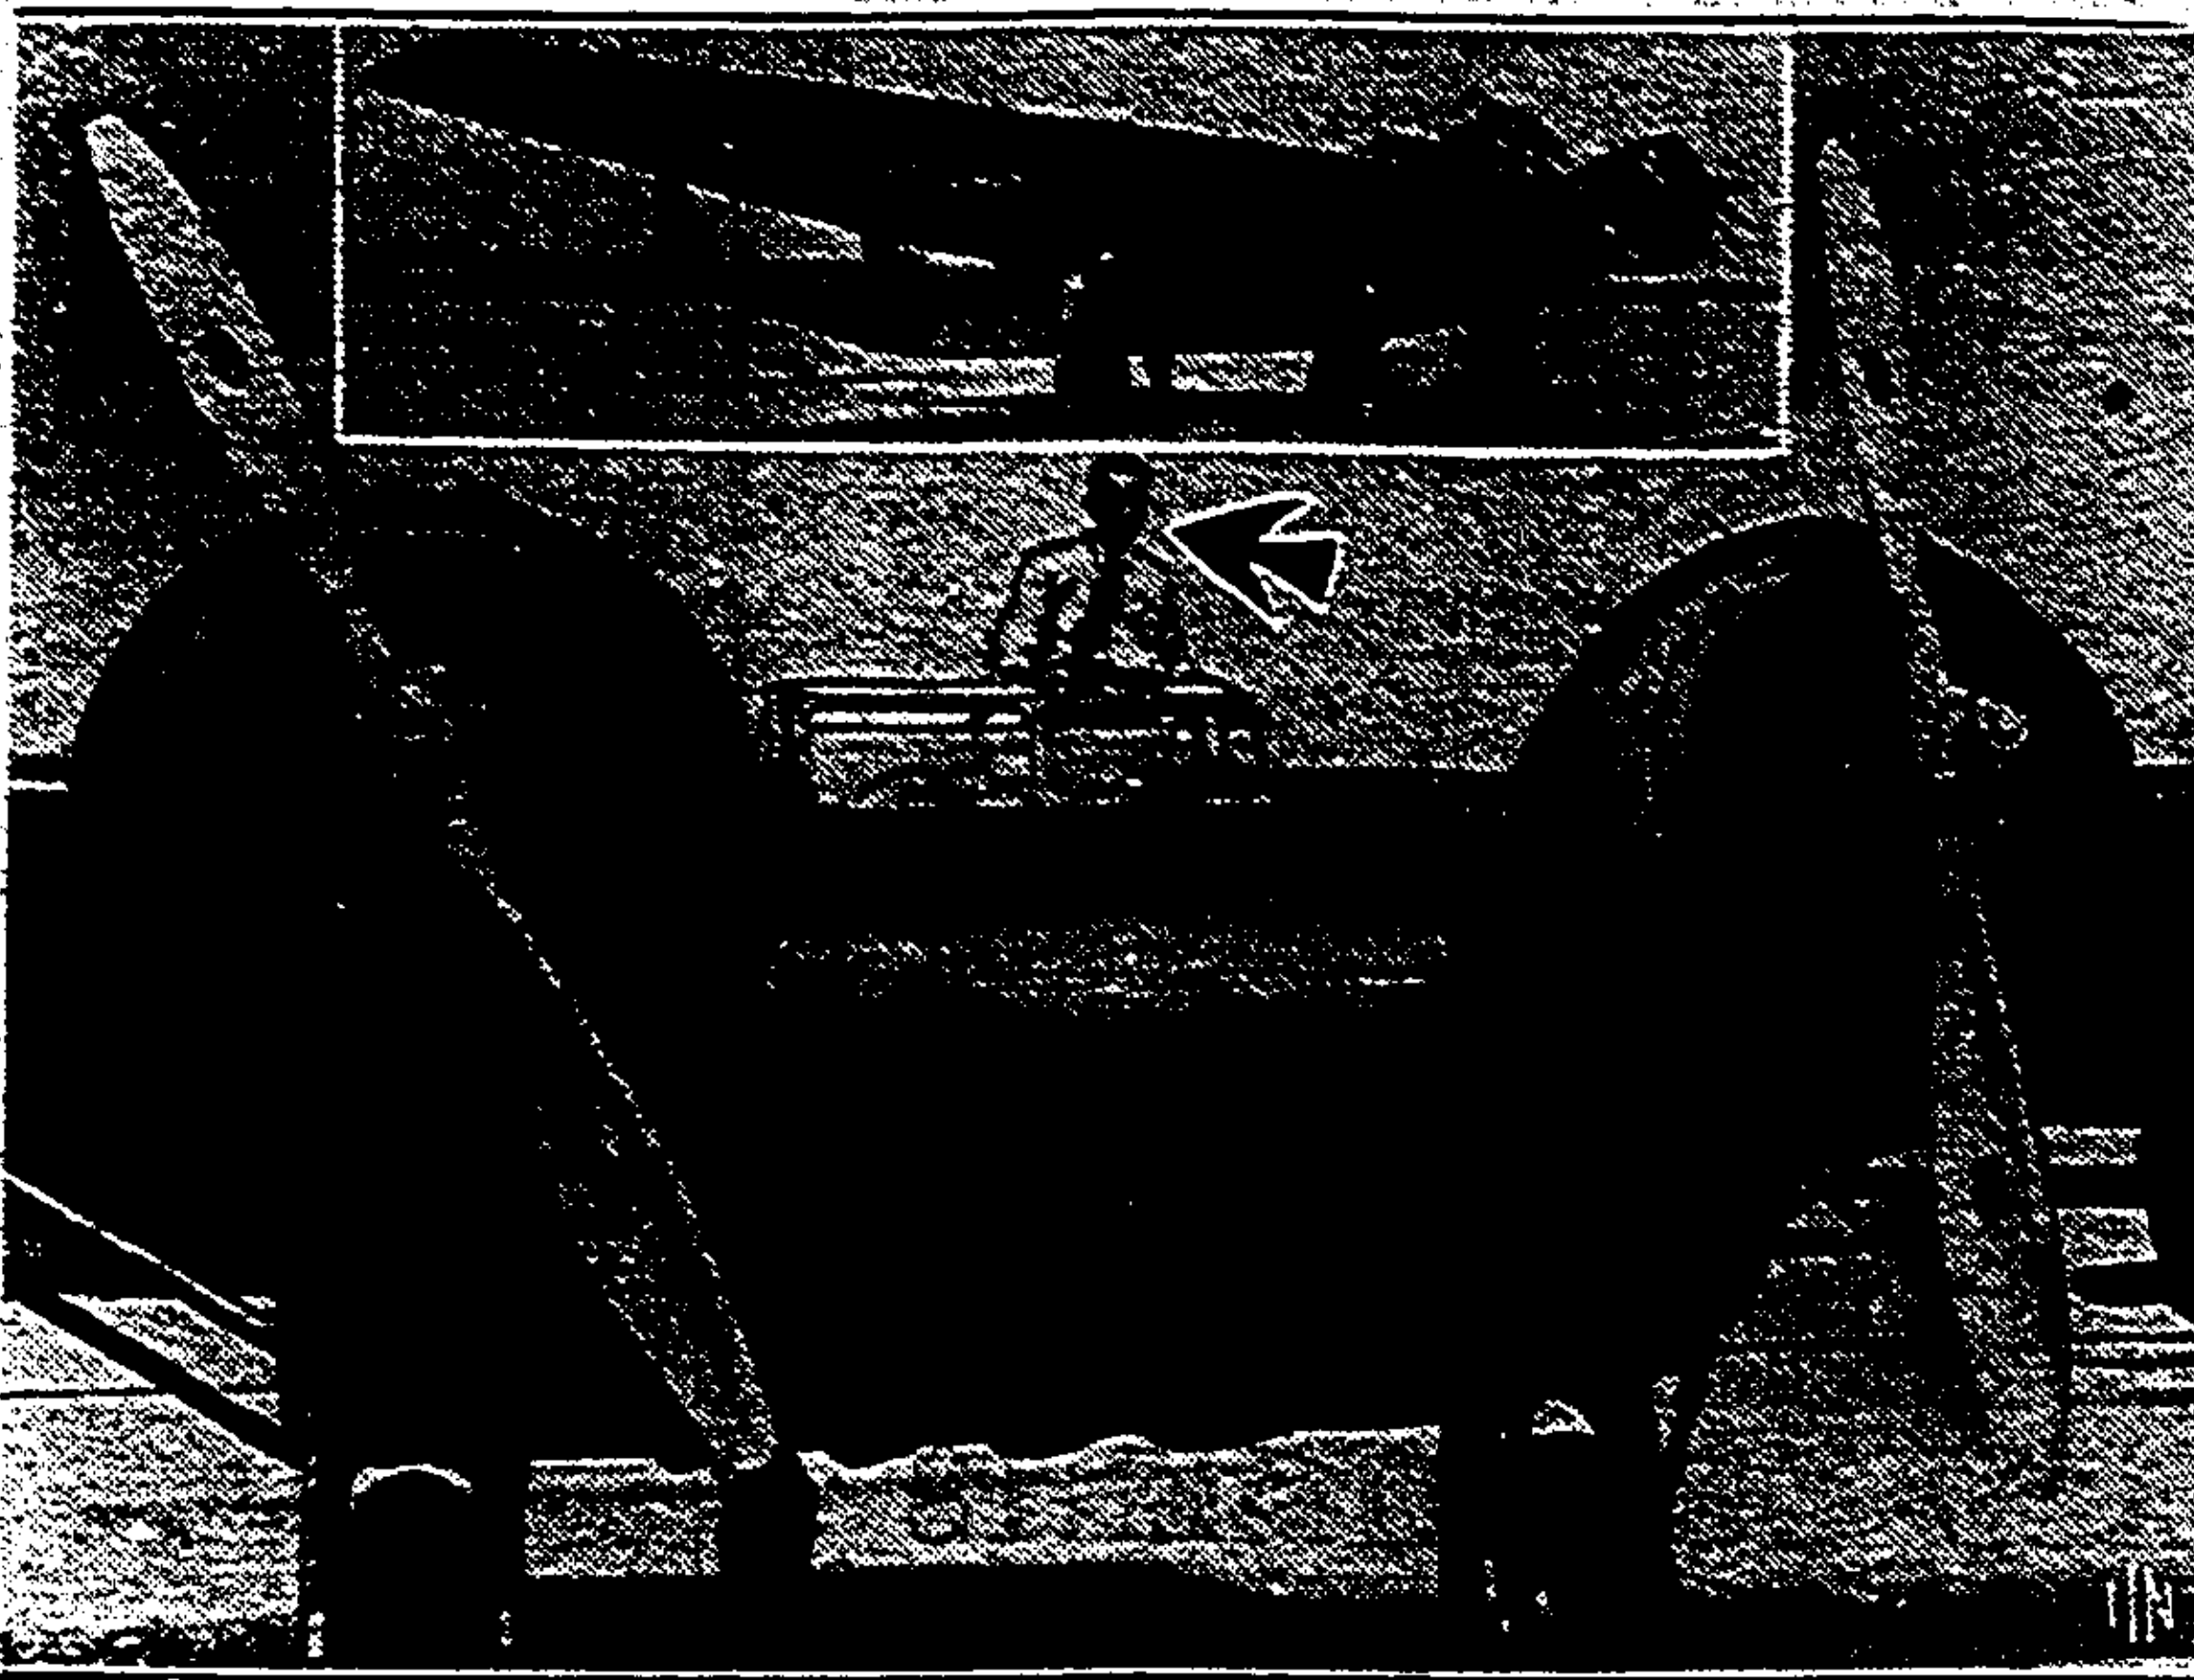

DOUGLAS AIRLINER FLOWN FOR OVER NINETEEN HOURS

New York.

FOURTEEN speed records were marked up recently for a twin-motored transport plane at the end of a nonstop 3,100-mile flight over a course between Washington, Norfolk, Va., and New York.

The records were set by Daniel W. Tomlinson, former navy flier, and Joseph E. Bartles, flying a TWA Douglas airliner for more than 19 hours.

Tomlinson, one-time member of the Navy's famous acrobatic team of sea hawks, emerged smiling from the plane, showing little sign of fatigue. His wife, who had spent the entire time at the field following the progress of the flight, rushed to greet him. Soon afterward, Tomlinson and his co-pilot left for their hotel.

Clyde Pangborn (arrow) and Bennett Griffin, both trans-Atlantic flight veterans, hope to make a refuelling, non-stop flight around the world in this new type of "flying wing" Peperca-Burnelli transport. Pangborn is seen putting the ship, which seems to be all one wing, through tests at New York. Three refuellings will be made on the projected flight.

PORT OF BRISTOL

Trade Improvement Reported

CONSIDERABLE INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

In its annual report the Port of Bristol, England, show a definite and general improvement in the trade at the docks, and this coincides with considerable industrial development, including 18 new factories and 20 reconstructed or rebuilt in the last two years.

The income in general revenue account showed an increase of £11,291, compared with the previous year.

The number of vessels arriving from foreign ports was larger than for the two preceding years.

The register tonnage was 2,547,643 tons, which was 172,557 tons higher than for the previous year.

Foreign Imports

The total weight of foreign imports amounted to 2,428,201 tons, and has been exceeded only once before—that was in 1932.

There was an improvement compared with the two preceding years at all the docks.

The total weight of imports of grain, oil seeds, flour and feeding stuffs was 1,080,800 tons, and constituted 45 per cent. of the foreign market.

Overseas Imports

The total weight of foreign and coastwise imports at City Docks was 3,367,093 tons, within 5,000 tons of the record year of 1932, and the total weight of foreign and coastwise exports was 582,921 tons.

Grain showed a decline, and so did general cargo and flour. Cereal products were less than in previous years.

Timber and petroleum products were above the average, petroleum, in fact, being only exceeded once, in 1931.

Dominions Trade

In the general summary it was mentioned that the efforts to develop trade with Australia and New Zealand were proving successful, and the imports showed an upward tendency.

During the year 15 vessels were launched from Messrs. Charles Hill and Sons' dockyard. They were all small craft, most of them for service on the Severn waterway.

NON-STOP REVUE

seductive. There were one or two very happy little touches in the show itself also, apart from the amusing drolleries of a funny man in the Fragoni tradition. And when seductive young women prevailed on staid and stodgy members of the audience to play "Home Sweet Home" on bells, one felt that one's cup of happiness was full.

In short, a show with something to suit every taste, packed full to overflowing with an endless variety of good ensembles, good dancing, and good-looking women. It is excellent value for the money, and to judge from the enthusiasm of yesterday's houses, should continue to draw large audiences during the remainder of its stay here.

The fliers, starting from Floyd Bennett Field at 5.59 a.m. the previous day, covered 3,106.849 miles, or 5,000 kilometers.

They covered four laps of a triangular course of 621 miles (1,000 kilometers) between Floyd Bennett Field, Bolling Field, Washington, and Willoughby Spit, Norfolk, Va.

One Lap Abandoned

Because of poor flying conditions around Norfolk the last night of the flight, a fifth lap was abandoned, and the final 621 miles were flown to and from Bolling Field and then over a course between Floyd Bennett Field, Newark Airport and North Beach Airport, Queens.

On the first four laps the average speeds were, respectively, 168.047, 174.296, 172.976 and 171.03 miles an hour. The speed for the final 1,000 kilometers was not announced officially, but was approximately 160 miles an hour. The average speed for the entire flight was 169.031.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

"Wheat: Better trade and general speculative interest was in evidence to-day. Hedging was on the light side. Owing to confirmation of serious damage to the crop, we would prefer the longside. Total sales: 19,002,000 bushels.

"Corn: Weather conditions are mostly excellent. We favour sales of new crop corn on bulges. Total sales: 5,265,000 bushels.

"Cotton: The market was nervous. There was some local and Southern selling on waning hopes of a 12-cent cotton loan.

"Flash: Average daily production of petroleum for the week ending August 17 was estimated at 2,709,000 barrels, compared with 2,657,000 barrels the previous week. The Edison Electric Institute estimates weekly electricity production at 1,833,000,000 k.w.h., an increase of 9.5 per cent. over the corresponding period of last year."

The following telegrams were received last night:—
Cotton: The weekly weather report indicates favourable conditions.

Wheat: Prospects of the domestic crop totalling 577,000,000 bushels are encouraging buyers. Private ideas place the Canadian wheat crop at 250,000,000 bushels.

AVIATION DEVELOPMENTS IN BRITAIN

FLYING HISTORY BEING SCREENED AT WORTON HALL

Mr. Churchill As Adviser

"CONQUEST OF THE AIR"

London. Visitors to Alexander Korda's studio at Worton Hall, where John Monk Saunders is directing "The Conquest of the Air," will find a notable figure acting as supervisor.—Mr. Winston Churchill, engaged to advise on that section of the film that deals with Britain's achievements in the world of flight.

"The Conquest of the Air" will tell the story of man's attempt to fly from prehistoric times to the present day. We meet the man at Nero's court who rashly attempted to imitate a bird, and put on a show that Nero summed up in the remark that it was "very diverting but quick entertainment; and now how about the chariots?"

Early Experiments

RACING ACE'S FLIGHTS

Channel Crossed Five Times In One Day

Mr. Richard Seaman, the racing motorist, crossed the Channel five times yesterday.

Early in the morning he flew from London to Dieppe to make a practice run for the Dieppe Grand Prix, in which he is competing on Saturday. From Dieppe he flew to Ramsgate, and in the afternoon he flew to Ostend with the Mayor of Ramsgate and returned to Ramsgate after tea. In the evening he flew back to Dieppe.

Copper: Usually well-informed circles feel that the domestic copper price is pointing towards the 9-cent level.

BOY PARACHUTIST MAKES THREE JUMPS

Courageous Effort By Youth Who Wanted To Qualify

In an effort to qualify for a parachute jumping certificate, Dennis Smith, 19, air pilot, Westcliff-on-Sea, did three jumps recently over Southend airport.

He narrowly missed a house when landing the first time, and on the second occasion was blown some distance along the ground by a high wind.

Although bruised, he went up a third time and on landing had both eyes blackened through his goggles being jammed into his face.

NEW GLIDING RECORD SET FOR BRITAIN

Enthusiast Abjures Breakfast

OVER THIRTEEN HOURS IN THE AIR

The British gliding duration record was broken by Mr. J. C. Neilan, of Seaham Harbour, at Sutton Bank, near Thirsk, recently. He flew for 13 hours 7 minutes.

The previous record, held by Mr. J. Laver, of Weymouth, was 12 hours 21 minutes. It was set up at Sutton Bank last September.

Mr. Neilan, who is a son of Dr. J. A. Neilan, of Seaham Harbour, took off in the Yorkshire Gliding Club's "Professor," a sailplane of German design, and construction at 8.15 a.m.

Confirmation Pending

He was launched by car, and conditions were so good that he decided there was no time to lose, so he went without his breakfast. He only had apples and chocolate during the flight.

In the cockpit was a sealed barograph, which will be sent to the Royal Aero Club for confirmation of the record.

ENGLAND'S NAVAL ANTI-AIR ATTACK PLANS OUTLINED

Increased Ships' Armament

BATTLESHIPS REFITTED

Portsmouth. There is official authority for the statement that the Navy is about to double, and eventually to quadruple, its anti-aircraft armament. This is a tacit admission of the potency of air attack, which at present, in official parlance, is "held," but may be expected to become much more formidable as the science of aviation progresses.

Up to now, Britain's latest battleships and cruisers have carried only four 4in anti-aircraft guns, exceptions being the Nelson and Rodney, each with six 4.7in guns.

New Armament

The battleships Warspite and Malaya, now undergoing large refits, will be the first to have the new standard armament of eight long-range anti-aircraft guns, probably of a new calibre, all controlled as a unit on the director system.

MACHINE TOO LOW

Pilot Killed While Looping At 300 Feet

Mr. George Richard Moorby, of the Norfolk Hotel, Kensington, was killed when his plane crashed just after leaving Hayling Island Aerodrome, Hants.

Eye-witnesses state that when about 300 feet in the air the pilot seemed to begin to loop. The machine was too low, and it crashed, the engine partly burying itself in the ground.

Mooby's landlady and her son, whom he had promised to take up for a flight, motored to the aerodrome and, noticing a crowd, thought that the pilot was busy. They reached the plane and found him dead among the wreckage.

SEQUEL TO RECENT AIR CRASHES

PETROL FEED SYSTEM TO BE ALTERED

SUGGESTION THAT PILOTS ARE BEING WORKED TOO HARD

Amsterdam, July 19.

IT is learned that the giant four-engined 42-seater Fokker aeroplane F 36 and also two four-engined 22-seater Fokkers F 22 have been withdrawn temporarily from the K.L.M. service to have the petrol feed system renewed and refitted.

This is being done as a result of the accident to an F 22 machine last Sunday, in which two Britons and four Dutchmen were killed, and one Briton injured.

It is believed that the petrol feed system of the two port motors of the aeroplane failed to work properly. At the moment engineers of the Amsterdam Fokker works and of the K.L.M. are testing a new system which they hope will be 100 per cent. foolproof.

The main alteration will be to fit larger petrol pipes on the giant Fokkers and to alter the entire feed system to make it less complicated, although the so-called "distance feed" from the tanks through pipes to the engine will remain unaltered.

Service to Cease

The proposed alterations will necessitate the F 36 and one of the F 22 machines now on the Amsterdam-London service being withdrawn for a period of seven to 10 days. During that time they will be replaced by Douglas and 3-engined Fokker planes.

It is also learned that the K.L.M. Amsterdam-Hull service will cease to be operated at the end of this month.

Questions have been put in the Dutch Parliament as to whether the K.L.M. is not working its pilots too hard, and suggesting that this may be responsible in part for the four recent air crashes of K.L.M. machines.

ENGLISH SERVICE TO BE SUSPENDED

Temporary Dutch Measure

The air service between Amsterdam, Hull and Liverpool, which is run by the Royal Dutch Air Lines (K.L.M.), is to be suspended temporarily this month.

An official at the London office said recently:

"We want our machines badly on other European lines. The Hull-Liverpool-Amsterdam service is now in its second year of operation, but the number of passengers is still a disappointing one."

"This is only a temporary measure, and when we have machines available we shall still operate the line."

AIR SECRETARY'S "BAPTISM"

Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister made his first public appearance as Secretary for Air at the R.A.F. Flying Club Display at Hatfield. Accompanied by two members of the Air Council, he travelled to Hatfield in the Air Council's air launch, a recently acquired "Dragon Rapide," encountering heavy rain on the way.

LONDON-PARIS AIR SPEED UP

Improvements By Hillman Line

ADDITIONAL MACHINES

Hillman's Airways, whose planes fly between London and Paris and on other services, has been transformed recently, and this month will be further speeded up by the addition of machines of the D.H. 86 type to its fleet.

Capt. T. Neville Stack, the air superintendent, a pilot of great experience and also a trained engineer, has reorganised the flying and working departments.

Personnel are engaged on a stabilised and improved basis, with the result that first-class quality is assured.

New Signalling

A new method of "contact" and "off" signalling between pilots and ground men has been introduced. This is to avoid danger when an engine is started up just as the mechanic is about to swing the propeller.

The hand fully extended and held above the head means "off" (it is the policeman's signal to stop traffic); the hand clenched above the head means "contact" (engine on). Such plain signals obviate the use of the voice, which in such circumstances is usually inaudible.

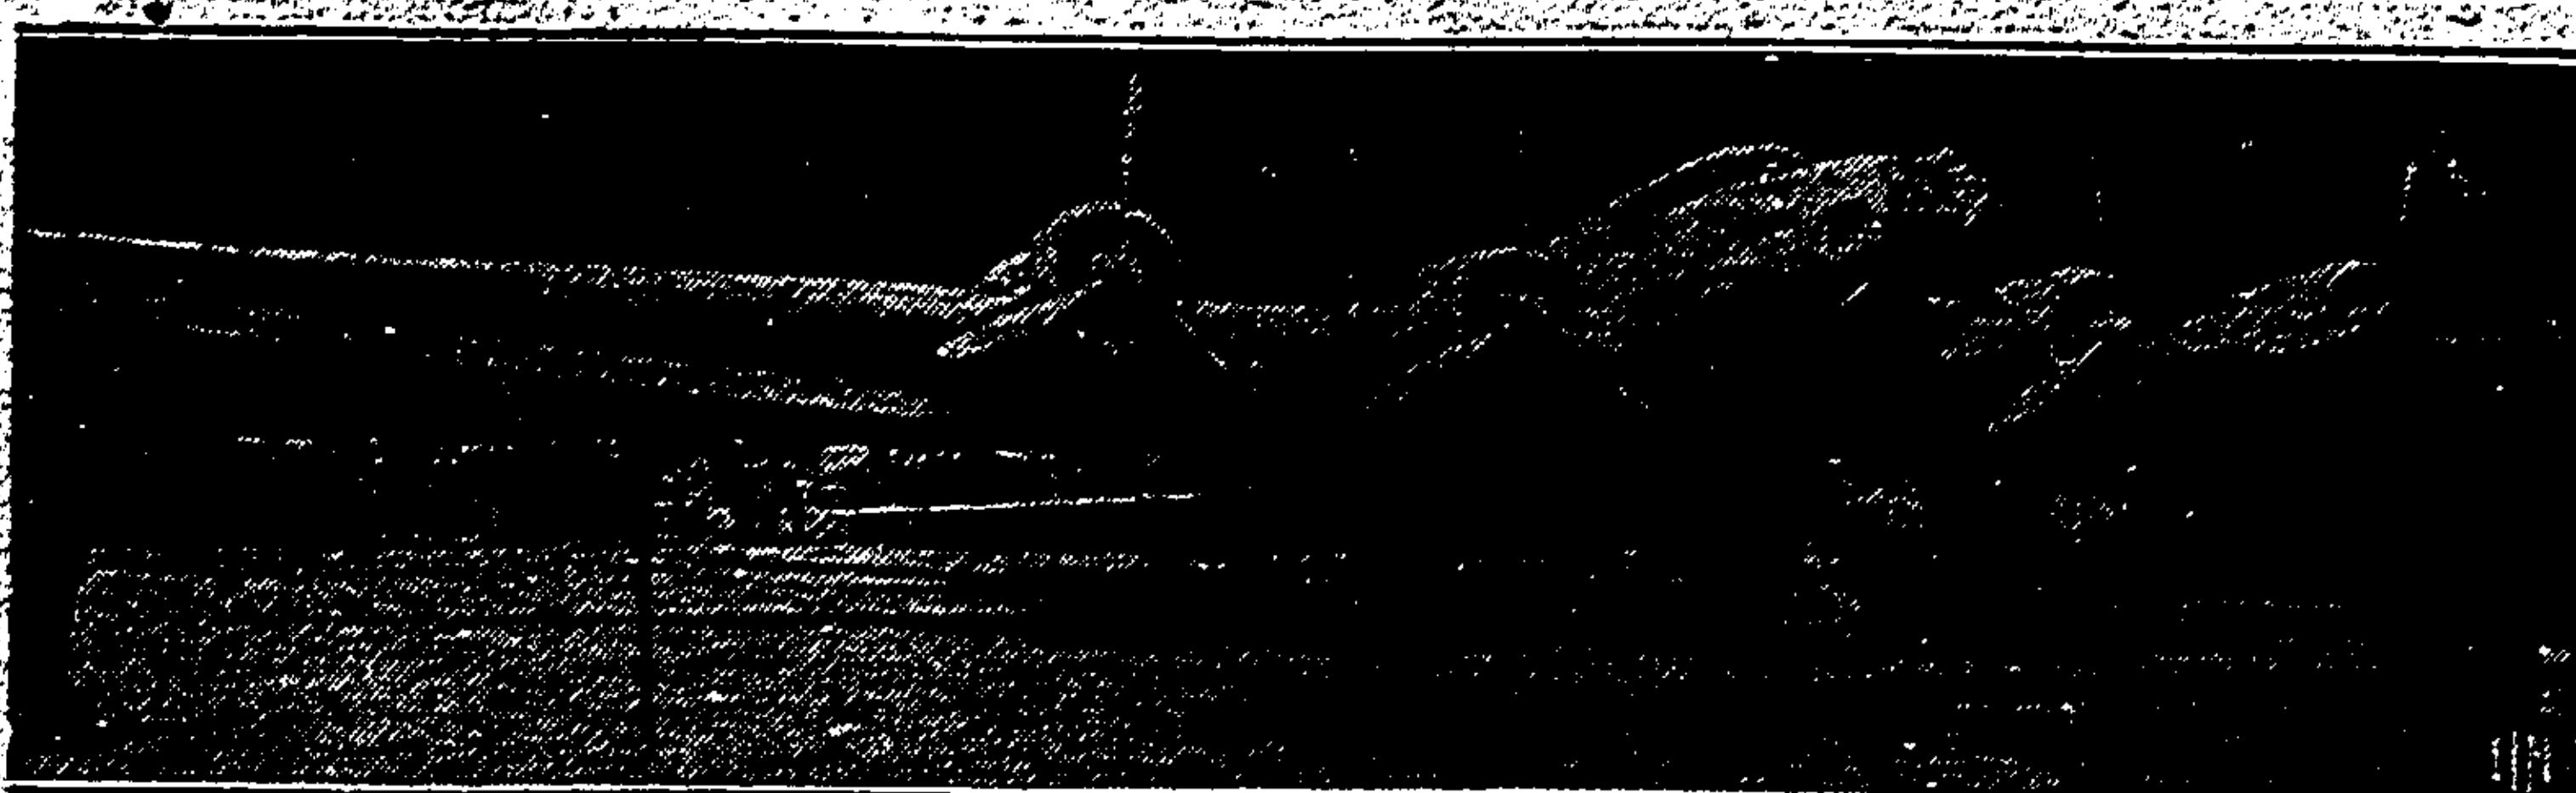

MATCH FUND FOR PLANES

Japan's Air Defence Programme

Tokyo. Fifty match manufacturers have organised to produce an Air Defence Match, the proceeds to be used for the purchase of army and navy aeroplanes. In addition to the sales of the Defence matches, a 10 per cent. levy on present match production will bring funds sufficient for the purchase of 12 machines.

The Amazing Chinese

In view of the fact that the civilisation of China probably antedates that of most of the Western world by some thousands of years, it sounds singularly inapt to speak of China's lack of political solidarity and cohesion. It would seem that a nation which has remained more or less intact since its first emergence as an entity would by its very existence belie the suggestion that there are faults—and very serious faults—in its political structure; the inference would seem to be that the modern political structure of a sovereign State as we know it has not, in fact, that quality of stability which in modern politics stands for strength. All this is no doubt true; but the Man from Mars visiting modern China would be justified in remarking that it is the wonderful tenacity of the Chinese as a nation which makes it exist as a political entity in spite of not because of any cohesion that its political leaders can give it.

And he would be right. This is not the place to argue, even if we had the ability to do so, which we have not, what particular form of Government is best suited to the most hard-working, the most patient in trouble, the least fairly used people in the world. Whether their general condition of life beneath centuries of dynastic rule compares favourably or not with the general condition of the backbone of the country—the peasant—to-day can hardly be argued from lack of reliable data, much less stated as a fact. That there were appalling injustices and hardships in Imperial rule seems to be well established; but that in recent years the country has suffered from a monstrous drain of exploitation, dishonesty and rapacity on the part of its self-elected "lords" can also hardly be denied. In a country of such enormous ramifications, where communications in the interior are practically nil, where self-contained communities differing in language, outlook and mentality as are diverse as the patches on Joseph's coat, political centralisation and hegemony would be a difficult thing to establish at the best of times. Subversive factions of the community will always take the law into their own hands if they feel themselves strong and secure enough, even in Western countries, as we have seen in America all too often. And when the ineptitude and weakness of a central Government thousands of miles away are displayed every day on every hand, the temptation to do so must be well-nigh irresistible, if only from a sense of frustration and impatience. This, in bald outline, is the political condition of China to-day, and there appears to be only one way in which it may be set right, and that is by closer co-operation between the various political factions, with all working for the good of the whole instead of the good of themselves.

The enormous change of mind that this would entail on the part of by far the large majority of China's political leaders seems as far off as the millennium. Mr. Chow Lu, speaking from the comparative security and independence of the South-West, where political leaders have no foreign Power on their heels to dictate or suggest policy at every move, can well call upon the Northern leaders to be "men," and ethically he is right, but where are the concrete resources upon which the country could draw for the show of practical resistance for which Mr. Chow calls? Where is the driving power, the means to co-ordinate it, and most necessary of all, the modern weapons by which such resistance could be made effective? Where, finally, is that militant national spirit without which no such campaign can be carried to a successful conclusion? They all seem to us to be utterly lacking in present-day China, not from any fault of the people at large, but simply because her inner strength has been continuously drained away by decades of mismanagement, spoliation and factional discord. The people themselves, in fact, have always shown most remarkable powers of resistance—passive, maybe, but resistance, nevertheless. Other nationalities called upon to suffer one-hundredth part of the depredations—man-made and Act of God—which the populace of China has had to suffer in its troubled history would have disintegrated and come to nought long before this. Floods, famines, epidemics of disease, the terrible scourge of the opium trade (because it is more or less continuous) of banditry and exploitation again and again ravage the peasants of China; but with a remarkable capacity for creating Phoenixes out of smoking ruins they go on and on, and left in peace would possess the earth. Everywhere, without exception, where the Chinese have been permitted to form their own communities in conditions of political stability, their capacity for hard work, their silent and unpretentious power of adaptation, and their frugality and thrift have built them up into the most valuable section of the populace. The Chinese labourer can work

"SEVEN PILLARS" OMISSIONS

When T. E. Lawrence's "Seven Pillars of Wisdom" appeared in London this month it was found to contain a preface by Mr. A. W. Lawrence, the author's brother.

This makes it clear that the text of this new edition was the same as that of the 30-guinea edition of 1926, except in a few minute particulars.

For example, Mr. A. W. Lawrence explains that from three pages there are omissions so that the feelings of living persons may not be hurt. But these omissions, added together, make no more than a few lines.

IMMORAL OR IMMORTAL?

An amusing inclusion in the new edition is a series of questions addressed by the publisher to Lawrence of Arabia concerning "Revolt in the Desert," with the author's answers. Here are two typical examples:

Q.—"Meleager, the immortal poet." I have put "immortal" poet, but the author may mean immortal after all.

A.—Immortality I know. Immortality I cannot judge. As you please: Meleager will not sue us for libel.

Q.—"Sherif Abd el Mayin of Slip 68 becomes el Main, el Mayein, el Muein, el Mayin, and el Muein."

A.—Good egg. I call this really ingenious.

Your Daily Smile!

"What is floodlighting, Bill?"
"Well, I don't rightly know. Maybe it's got something to do with arc lamps."

A Hollow Sound
Little Betty and Junior had attended a talk by a returned missionary. "What did he tell you about the heathens?" asked their grandma. "Oh, he said that they were often very hungry, and when they beat on their tum-tums, it could be heard for miles."

At Least One Thing—
Student: "What is the date, please?"
Professor: "Never mind the date. The examination is more important."
Student: "Well, sir, I wanted to have something right on my paper."

Squelched
A pompous individual, posing as an authority on education, went into the local school with the intention of putting the fifth grade through their paces in the geography of Europe. He began: "What is the capital of 'O'land?"
"It" was the crashing rejoinder from the smart boy of the class.

WHEN FRIENDS FELL OUT

Quarrel Follows Complaint

Two good friends, Kwan Yuen-ming and Leung Yan, appeared as complainant and defendant, respectively, in an assault case, which was heard by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning.

The complainant stated that he and defendant used to live together and were good friends. Yesterday, while he was talking to a friend, defendant came up to him and told him that he was too noisy. Words led to blows, during which defendant, it was alleged, struck complainant with a wooden stool.

Defendant was bound over to a bond of $25 to be of good behaviour for six months.

harder for less money and infinitely fewer luxuries than anybody else in the world. In spite of hardships which would break anybody else, they come up smiling and somehow carry on. They are the most wonderful people on earth without the slightest doubt. If they could get together politically and were subjected to entirely disinterested and altruistic leadership, the people of China would be strong enough to resist any sort of aggressiveness that anybody could offer. They may still do it simply by the force of their almost irresistible powers of recovery. But they are sorely hindered by their political leadership, which is a great pity.

TREASURES FROM CHINA

MAGNIFICENT ART ON VIEW IN LONDON

FORTHCOMING EXHIBITION ITEMS DESCRIBED

(By R. L. Hobson)

London. The cruiser Suffolk arrived at Portsmouth recently bearing the Chinese Palace Treasures which are to be shown in the International Exhibition of Chinese Art at Burlington House during the coming winter.

It is a unique event. Surely no British warship has ever before carried such a precious cargo from the other side of the world. The occasion, too, is unique. This will be the first international exhibition on Chinese art.

The exhibition will be thoroughly comprehensive, including all branches of Chinese art from the earliest days to the end of the 18th century. There will be priceless paintings, sculptures in wood, stone and metal, ancient bronze vessels and jades, exquisite porcelain, gay brocades and textiles, lacquer, enamels and many choice objects representing the arts in which the Chinese have always excelled.

True Greatness

Visitors to Burlington House will be able to appreciate for the first time the true greatness of Chinese art; not the mere fancy trade goods, the amusing magots and chinoiserie which have too long been regarded in Europe as typical of China, but the things on which China's unassailable claims to artistic greatness are based.

They will be impressed with the antiquity of many of these objects, representing a continuous tradition of full 3,000 years. What other nation to-day can boast such a proud record?

They will see, for instance, bronzes of noble form, cunningly decorated with reliefs and tooled designs, which date back beyond the siege of Troy and which far surpass the best contemporary metal work of the Mediterranean civilisations. The Chinese have always excelled in bronze casting, and the fine series shown of ritual vessels, chariot fittings, mirrors, personal ornaments, shrines and religious figures will astonish the modern craftsman by their beauty of form.

Silk Fabrics

Another achievement of ancient China is the manufacture of silk fabrics. Exactly how old this is we are not sure, but the fact that beautiful brocades were woven as early as a century before the Christian era has been established by recent excavations. About the same time the pencil brush was first made; and another epoch-making discovery by the Chinese gave paper to the world. Silk, paper and the brush prepared the way for the greatest of Chinese artistic achievements, calligraphy and painting.

Though very few of the earliest examples of either of these remain to-day, there is enough to show that both had reached an advanced stage by the fourth century. The classic periods of Chinese painting passed while Europe was still in the Dark Ages; and the prolific dynasties of the Sung (960-1279) and Yuan (1280-1368) produced thousands of mature masterpieces before the first of the European primitives saw the light.

Palace Pictures

There are about a hundred pictures from the Palace collection which claim to belong to these great periods. Hitherto Chinese paintings earlier than the Ming dynasty (1368-1644) have been rare as black swans in Europe, and even if we accept only the modest percentage of the hand-painted masterpieces, there will be enough to make the exhibition memorable.

Chinese paintings are executed on silk and paper and largely in ink. They are essentially calligraphic. Indeed, calligraphy, which is an indispensable part of an artist's training, ranks in China fully as high as painting itself. There had previously been little opportunity for the study of Chinese calligraphy in Europe.

Another feature of the exhibition which cannot fail to evoke general enthusiasm will be the display of ceramics. It is commonplace that in the potter's art the Chinese are unrivalled.

Ceramic Treasures

The boast will be fully substantiated by the ceramic contributions from the Palace collections. The Sung monochrome porcelains with their lovely grey, celadon green, lavender, and cream white glazes; the brilliant Ming reds and blues, and the blue and white of the Ming and later periods will delight the eye of connoisseur and layman.

Among the polychrome painted porcelains, too, there is a peculiarly welcome series of eighteenth century wares. They include some of the daintiest imaginable porcelains, thin as eggshell and exquisitely painted in famille rose colours, in a taste that is purely Chinese. Very little porcelain of this quality has as yet reached Europe as it is so keenly desired by the Chinese collectors.

If pictures, bronzes and porcelains are the chief items among the Chinese Palace treasures, there are still other categories which are by no means negligible. There are, for instance, 29 pieces of tapestry and embroidery mounted like pictures, which will prove a great attraction for their beauty of design and gay colours.

There are some 60 carvings in jade, hard stones and rhinoceros horn; and there are cloisonné enamels, glass and lacquer.

Old Books

Finally, there are old Chinese books from the National Library in Peking which will illustrate the art of printing and wood-block illustration.

All told, there are 95 packing cases on the Suffolk containing approximately 800 objects. They were chosen out of many others in Shanghai, where the bulk of the Peiping Palace treasures have been stored since 1933; and the choice was made by the European selection committee of five members in collaboration with their Chinese colleagues. It was a fascinating but arduous task which took some two months to complete.

KOWLOON ROBBERY

$1,565 In Money And Jewellery

Over $2,174, in money, jewellery and clothing, was stolen from the ground floor of No. 47, Sung Tai Street, Kowloon, which is occupied by a Chinese named Sam Pak-kwong.

The theft occurred between midnight and 5 a.m. yesterday, and in a report made to the police at about 8 a.m. it was revealed that the burglars entered the premises by boring a hole in the back door of the house, thus enabling them to unbolt it from the inside.

The total amount of money stolen amounts to $1,565, which includes 15 $100 bank notes. No arrests have yet been made.

FATAL MOTOR ACCIDENT

A fatal accident occurred yesterday morning when car No. 2274, driven by So Pak-lam, knocked down a 19-year-old Chinese named Fung Yuen in Nathan Road. The man was taken to the Kowloon Hospital unconscious and died on admission.

Evidence showed that the Countess married Ryan as the result of a plot to snare a wealthy American husband. Mrs. Ryan told Prince and Princess Hohenlohe-Eschillingsfurst (lower) that she married at the insistence of her impoverished mother, Countess May Wurmb-Stuppach (lower left).

It is the opinion of most of the Chinese leaders that the final results should not count so much as the experience young Chinese players get by playing with the best of the world's soccer teams.

High Malayan Standard

Dr. Yung thinks the standard of Malayan football is as high as that of any city along the China coast and the news that young Chinese players are taking part in first class football in this country has brought him here. He will make a list of the first raters of this country for the information of the federation, but the selection committee consisting of men from British Malaya, Java, Hong Kong and Shanghai will be given several opportunities to watch the standard of play of China, Canton, Hong Kong, Java and Malaya at the All-China Olympic Meet in October this year. The representative players at the Olympic meeting will not necessarily be the best available in view of the possibility of many being unable to secure leave to proceed to China.

The Federation is reported to have raised a sum of $300,000 to meet the heavy expenditure of China's contingent of athletes to the German capital.

China's New Sports Arena

The interest Chinese leaders take in promoting athletics and sports is something China has never seen before and nothing bears more convincing testimony to this fact than the recent sports arena in the Chinese city of Shanghai which has just been completed at a cost of one and half million dollars.

It is one of the largest in the Far East and has accommodation facilities for over thirty thousand spectators. This year's All-China Olympic games will be held there instead of Nanking.

A monster training camp for track and field athletes has been established at Taingtao, the former German Concession in East China, where the country's athletes are flocking for a systematic training under famous experts from the United States, Germany and Britain. Special facilities are provided for those who are only able to go there for a training during the Summer holidays.

The training of swimmers is being carried on in Hong Kong under instructors supplied by the China Federation.

An Unwise Comparison

According to records shown by the Malayan Chinese athletes in Penang, the Malayan Chinese contingent to the China Olympic should do quite well against their colleagues in the old country.

Although the Malaysians have broken some of the China records, Chinese athletes in Shanghai have also bettered a number of their own records—registered last year, so that our boys and girls should not entirely judge their own forms by comparing with records of last year.

The 52 seconds of Poh Kim Seng for the 400 metre sprint is better than the record of Lin Chang Choon (one of China's athletes to the last Olympiad in U.S.A.) but it is not the best in China at present. Miss Annie Yeo has broken the swimming records of the well-known Miss Yeung Sau-king, of Hong Kong, but two others in that colony have done the same.

Let not this critical reference be taken as an attempt to dampen the enthusiasm of our ambitious men and girls; it is intended to point out that they must go on improving in order that they may secure all the honours they deserve both at the All-China Olympiad and at the world competitions in Berlin.

DIESEL-ENGINED BUSES IN LONDON

Best For Safety And Economy

London, To-day.

The tests of the 850 diesel-engined London buses during the past few years have satisfied London passenger transport experts of their superior advantages to the petrol-driven vehicles on the grounds of economy and safety, and the Board has decided on replacing the existing fleet of buses and coaches with only the diesel type. There are some 5,500 buses and another 500 coaches in service and the changeover is not expected to be complete for 10 years.—British Wireless Service.

LORD NUFFIELD'S GENEROSITY

$5,000 Gift To Aid The Blind

London, To-day.

A gift of $5,000 by Lord Nuffield has enabled the National Institute for the Blind and St. Dunstan's to begin the compilation of a library of the "talking books" which he recorded for mechanical reproduction.

Special machines for the use of the blind are being manufactured, and some 25 titles have been already selected, ranging from the gospel of St. John to modern thrillers.—British Wireless Service.

"THE SILK EXPRESS"—ORIENTAL THEATRE

The thrilling story of how a band of criminals try to prevent a consignment of silk from arriving at his destination, provides the theme of "The Silk Express," which is screening at the Oriental Theatre to-day.

Neil Hamilton is cast as the company director who is anxious to see the consignment reach its destination, and Sheila Terry is shown as a girl who is rushing her invalid father to a specialist on the same train.

"RED MORNING"—MAJESTIC THEATRE

Steffi Duna has her first big chance in American films as the star of "Red Morning," the picture which opens for two days at the Majestic Theatre to-day.

Regis Toomey, who has drifted into the background somewhat recently, makes a startling comeback in a role which brings out a sense of the dramatic in him which one would hardly suspect.

Jeffries in 1785; the growth of the flying craze and the superstitious fear aroused in simple country people, who, on one occasion, attacked a balloon with pitchforks in the belief that it was some sort of living enemy. Next is shown the use of balloons to convey messages from besieged Paris during the Franco-Prussian War.

Steam Engine
Then a Frenchman's experiment with a steam engine, the coming of the internal combustion engine experiments by Maxim and Edison, the flights of men like the Wright Brothers, and finally the spectacular combats of the war and the conquest of the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Every episode has been chosen by the script writers, Mr. Saunders and Mr. Hugh Gray, for its intrinsic, dramatic, or comic value, as well as for its place in the history of aviation. The film promises to be one of the most interesting productions ever made.

FLYING RECORDS SET IN U.S.A.

New Marks Established
Three world records broken by the fliers were:

Two thousand kilometers with payloads of 500 kilograms and 1,000 kilograms: 173,636 miles an hour. Former record held by France, 168.6.

Five thousand kilometers without a load: 169,031 miles an hour. Former record held by Spain, 130. Two world marks for which none had previously been recorded were:

Five thousand kilometers with payloads of 500 kilograms and 1,000 kilograms: 169,031 miles an hour.

Nine Records
Nine United States records were established, only three of which previously had been recognized. They are:

One thousand kilometers without a load and with loads of 500 kilograms and 1,000 kilograms: 174,296 miles an hour.

Two thousand kilometers without a load and with loads of 500 kilograms and 1,000 kilograms: 173,636 miles an hour.

Five thousand kilometers without a load and with loads of 500 kilograms and 1,000 kilograms: 169,031 miles an hour.

Some Records Left
The fliers failed to break the world record of 254 miles an hour for 1,000 kilometers without a load, held by France, the record of 215.9 for the same distance with a load of 500 kilograms, held by Germany, that of 214.5 for 1,000 kilometers without a load, held by Germany, and that of 1,000 kilometers with a load of 1,000 kilograms, held by France.

The flight was timed by officials of the National Aeronautic Association with telescopic devices.

At the start, the plane carried 1,600 gallons of gasoline. At the end, her tanks held 25.

This magnificent loan from the Chinese Government will form the nucleus of the International Exhibition, but many nations will be contributing—France, Germany, Sweden, Holland and Belgium, and probably others in Europe. The Selection Committee going on from China to America received promises of lavish help from various parts of the United States.

Chinese Sculpture

The best Chinese sculpture is of a religious kind, and it was not represented among the Palace collections stored in Shanghai; but many of the figures of Buddhist divinities and saints from the old temples, pagodas and grottoes of China are worthy of a place among the great sculptures of the world.

In welcoming the generous loans to the exhibition from foreign countries we must not lose sight of our contributors at home. Great Britain can boast some of the finest collections of Chinese art, and they will be freely drawn on.

Whole groups of important ceramics such as the Kang Hsi blue and white, and famille verte porcelains and the gorgeous Ming three-colour wares will be supplied at home. So will the bulk of the early pottery of the Han and Tang and intermediate dynasties, ranging from 200 B.C. to 900 A.D. There are besides some first-rate bronzes and many jades, and an almost inexhaustible supply of the minor works of the Chinese craftsman.
